Lesson 24: Do Unto Others

Each year thousands of visitors come to Jamaica to enjoy our warm sunshine and lovely beaches and our hospitality. Tourism is a very important part of the Jamaican economy. Tourists are like visitors in your home. They want to be treated with politeness and respect and be made to feel welcomed. When there are conflicts between visitors and the local people, the visitors may not come back and may tell their friends not to come to Jamaica.

PUTTING IT TO TOGETHER

1. Write out the conversation that you think is taking place between the tourist lady and the hustler.
2. Write out the conversation that you think may take place between the tourist wife and husband after the hustler has left.
3. Participate in acting out the scene using dialogue written by the class.

YOUR CHALLENGES!

1. Discuss in class how the hustler could make a sale without harassing the tourists.
2. Find out as much as you can about the tourist industry and its contribution to the Jamaican economy and be prepared to report your findings to the class.
